Mission To advance limited government and free market principles in local government

The American City County Exchange (ACCE) is the largest nonpartisan, voluntary membership policy organization of local officials in the United States. ACCE provides a unique opportunity for local officials, business leaders and stakeholders from around the country to exchange ideas and develop pro-growth model policy based on research, analysis and proven business practices.

ACCE members work together at the intersection of policy development and real-world application. Through research, evaluation, analysis and information exchange, the American City County Exchange presents a forum for dialogue between the government and businesses as they address issues and develop policies that protect hardworking taxpayers and improve the lives of all Americans.

Our unique public-private partnership is part and parcel of the American experience. Free enterprise, paired with limited government, is the basis of American success. Working together, American City County Exchange members present real solutions to create a stable and predictable business environment and grow jobs, opportunity and economic security.

>> ACCE MEMBER BENEFITS

In municipalities across America, people debate to find the best policy solutions, but the free market perspective is often left by the wayside. Working together, ACCE members learn from others' challenges and evaluate how free market policies work when applied to local governments.

>> PRIVATE SECTOR GENERAL MEMBERSHIP

Membership in the American City County Exchange provides business leaders the opportunity to participate in policy discussions, educate lawmakers and network with other industry experts and local government officials from across the country.

ACCE EVENTS

Each year, ACCE hosts two meetings that bring members together to share ideas and strategies, debate policies and learn from like-minded leaders throughout the country.

ANNUAL MEETING

The ACCE Annual Meeting, held each summer, is one of the nation's largest local level policy conferences. Local officials and industry experts gather for three days to discuss and address major local-policy issues.

POLICY SUMMIT

The Policy Summit, held in the winter, is a three-day conference focused on priorities for the upcoming year as well as the balance of power between the local and state governments and the federal government.

“The ACCE conference was an invaluable opportunity to share best practices, exchange innovative ideas, and meet other municipal leaders. Each city or county is unique, but we all face similar challenges, and ACCE provides the perfect forum to help local leaders effectively shape policy and tackle tough issues.”

– Ellen Troxclair, Austin City Councilwoman
